DEATH OF JOHN A. WAYLAND.

Former State Senator Died at His Home at Calvert.

Calvert, Texas, January 1.—Former Senator John A. Wayland died at his home in this city at 1 o'clock this morning. Col. Wayland was a native of Virginia, and served as a soldier in the Confederate Army of North Virginia under General J. E. B. Stuart. Recognizing soon after the war the possibilities for an ambitious young man which were offered in the Lone Star State, he came to Texas, locating in Jefferson county, where he engaged in the mercantile and banking business. From Jefferson Colonel Wayland moved to Austin, and later came to Calvert and became a prominent Brazos bottom planter, and was a very extensive cotton grower. He represented this floratorial district at Austin and was later elected State Senator. He was the author of the Wayland fee bill. Ill health has prevented his active participation in the political counsels of his party for several years past, and he has of late years led a quiet, retired life, devoting his attention to his private business here. He has accumulated a large fortune. Colonel Wayland is survived by a widow and no children. The funeral will occur at the City cemetery at this place tomorrow.—Houston Post.

Col. Wayland was well known and had many friends in this city who will learn of his death with deep regret.

Freed at Stephenville of Charge of Having Killed McConnell.

Stephenville, Texas, January 3.—At 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning, J. T. Pearson of Mineral Wells was acquitted of the charge of having killed S. W. McConnell in Mineral Wells, in May, 1908. At this time the jury that has had his case in hand since six o'clock Saturday afternoon reported to the court that they had found the defendant not guilty.

As soon as the verdict had been rendered, Pearson, accompanied by his counsel and his daughter, Miss Jesse Pearson, left for Fort Worth.—Houston Post.

DAVIS-MONTGOMERY.

Popular Young Man of Bryan Weds Miss Montgomery of Austin.

Last evening at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. L. H. Montgomery, Miss Fannie Montgomery, one of Austin's fairest and most popular young women, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Davis of Bryan. The ceremony was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Butler, pastor of the First Baptist church, who used the ring ceremony of the Episcopal church. The bride was unattended, and was gowned exquisitely in a white crepe meteor, with rose point ornamentation. She wore the proverbial bridal veil, fastened with orange blossoms, and carried a beautiful shower bouquet of bride roses and valley lilies. The ceremony, which was witnessed by only a few of the most intimate friends and relatives was performed in the handsome parlors, whose rich green walls and furnishings formed an ideal background for the groupings of bride roses in vases which formed the decoration.

An informal reception followed. Two courses of refreshments were served, the ice being molded in the form of wedding slippers. The bride's cake was distributed in wedding boxes, monogrammed "M. D." to take home to dream upon.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis left last night for Bryan, where they will spend a short while before going to San Francisco to take passage for Japan. They will spend some time abroad. The bride's going away gown was a becoming dark blue tailored suit.

The out-of-town guests in attendance at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Richard King of La Puerta ranch, South Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gentry Estill of Estill, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wyse of El Paso, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mills of Corsicana, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Crane of Houston, Mrs. J. Fred Smith of Dallas, Mr. Robert Neill of San Antonio.

Among the immediate ante-nuptial entertainments participated in by the bride was a breakfast on Tuesday morning at 10:30, given in her honor by Miss Christine Littlefield. The table was exquisitely decorated in Christmas colors, with a glowing poinsettia as the floral center. Bride rosebuds marked the places, while the bride-elect's chair was especially favored with a horseshoe of white hyacinths tied with white maline. The delectable courses were enjoyed by the following besides the honor guest and the hostess: Misses Sallie Jo Nalle, Elizabeth Wilmoth, Julia and Nina Richardson, Fannie Campbell, Margaret Robinson, Texie Finley and Mrs. Ireland Graves.

An informal dinner at the Country club on Tuesday evening was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Wyse of El Paso, Misses Christine Littlefield, Elizabeth Wilmoth, Julia and Nina Richardson, Sallie Jo Nalle and the bride-elect; Messrs. Boyd Wells, Sully Robertson, Arthur Moore, Wilson Burke Pope and the groom-elect, Mr. Charles Davis of Bryan, formerly of El Paso.—Austin Statesman.

A BIG LAND DEAL.

One of the largest real estate deals that has been made in this section in some time has just been closed by Mr. C. S. Gainer. He sold his plantation in the Brazos bottom near Mumford to Mr. W. F. Spiller, a former extensive tobacco grower in east Texas, including his ferry and ferry boat on the Brazos river. The consideration was $70,000. Mr. Gainer reserved his horses and mules, and all other stock and farming implements, to the value of $12,000.

The Gainer farm was one of the best in this section of the Brazos valley.

SOME WISE OBSERVATIONS.

Mr. J. H. White Talks Entertainingly on the Cotton Situation.

Bryan Eagle:—

I notice in your valuable paper that the reporter quoted me as saying that the farmers of Brazos county had lost $16,000 by not holding their cotton. I meant to say that they, or we had sold 16,000 bales at 12 cents per pound or less, whereas if we had held that 16,000 bales averaging 500 pounds to the bale, for 15 cents, or in other words if the farmers had been as well organized as they should have been, and made a demand the first of the season as we well knew then the crop was short and the demand was great, we would have had today $160,000 of our just and hard earnings.

This amount would give $2.00 to every child in the scholastic age in Brazos county, or say $10,312 and it would still leave in the hands of the producers $148,688 to buy books, clothing, provisions and other necessities of life, or pay on that home he and his wife and children are trying so hard to pay for.

But owing to the admission of the exchange or speculators, we have no say as to what our produce or labor is worth, and this enormous sum is hoarded up to fight the producer with the next time there is a good crop of any one kind made.

O, how long will these conditions remain? Now Mr. Editor, I have taken up much more of your valuable space than I expected to, but allow me to say that every thing that is raised on the farm is now demanding a good price, and if the farmers will plant plenty of corn, raise plenty of hay, peas, goobers, potatoes, syrup, hogs, and such things as the farmer needs and attend strictly to our own business we will regulate prices some day in the near future I trust.

BUSINESS CHANGE.

Mr. V. J. Dobrovolsky has sold his saloon business to Mr. Joe Opersteny who has been in his employ for a number of years and retired from the business. The change was effective Saturday morning when the new proprietor took charge.

Mr. Dobrovolsky came to Bryan from his fathers farm near College where he was raised and engaged in the saloon business in partnership with Adolph Hrdlicka on June 23, 1895. The business was located in the rear of the First National Bank the same as now, except that it was in the old building which was burned last January. After the death of his partner, he bought his interest in the business from his wife, and continued at the old stand until 1904, when he bought a building of his own on the Exchange hotel block and moved into it. He remained there until last September, when the new bank building was completed, and he moved back to his old stand, renting out his own building.

In the fourteen and a half years that Mr. Dobrovolsky was engaged in the saloon business in Bryan, he has conducted himself and his business in a straight forward, honorable manner, tracking the law to the letter as far as it was possible, maintaining at all times a quiet and orderly place. He has enjoyed the confidence and respect of the entire citizenship, and retired with his good name unimpaired and with the confidence of everybody. He has purchased a farm of 340 acres from Mr. C. C. Shelburne and will engage in farming and stock raising.

The new proprietor, Mr. Opersteny, has been with Mr. Dobrovolsky for a number of years and is well known and popular with a large circle of friends and acquaintances. He has the best wishes of all for much success.
